PAIR LIVE YEARS

London Divorce Court Has One of Strongest Cases to Hear on Long Record.

BY FLOYD MACGRIFF. LONDON, Jan. 2.—The old adage i wrong; a woman can hold her tongue. In one of the strangest domestic rela tions cases that has come before the London divorce court in 200 years, ; wan, little blue-eyed woman, whose hair was once flaxen, admitted that she had not spoken to her husband for three years, although they continued to live in the same house. The husband had in the same house. The husband had been equally silent.

In 1916 George Hill, of liford, handed his wife a slip of paper which stated that he wanted nothing more to do with her. It was the capsheaf on a harvest of domestic squabbling. And from that time she had not spoken to him.

But they continued to occupy a tastefully furnished suburban dwelling, and communicated through hundreds of hotes only. Mrs. Hill cooked the meals and made the beds. The husband each week laid down $10 on a table for his wife.

So Mrs. Hill sued for judicial separa-tion on the ground of desertion. She charged that her husband locked his bedroom door and forced her to sleep

MARINE LEAGUE

Vast Organization Is to Raise Interest in Body That Will Back Ship Building.

To arouse the American people to the critical importance of chabli-hing their merchant marine on a permanent basis of healthy development, the National Marine league, an association of American manufacturers, shippers and business men from all parts of the country will hold a national marine exposition next April in New York.

Henceforth, according to the league, our people will be compelled to accept billions of dollars worth of European-made goods in payment of foreign dobts to us. Unless these goods are disposed of outside of the United States, many American mills will have to close and our home industries must largely cease.

to close and our home industries must largely cease.

"The one solution to this grave economic problem," asserts P. H. W. Ross, president of the league, "is American ships. Through them this threatened deluge of foreign-made goods which could wipe out our steady, profitable employment of capital and labor at home, can be stemmed and diverted to new foreign markets. If we are to retain national and individual prosperity and avoid commercial peomage to any foreign nation, we must make a concerted effort immediately to place our great new merchant marine and the enormous industries connected therewith, in a position where they will not again dwindle to prewar insignificance.

"Two things are essential to this: The passing of legislation conducive to steady and profitable building and option on the ground of desertion. She charged that her husband locked with in a position where they will as position where they will as position where they will a position of the position. The passing of legislation conducts of the position of ships, and the financing and operating of ships, and the financing and operating of ships, and the financing and position of ships, and the financing of ships, and the financing and continued:

The husband also has a few things to say after the long domestic ablence. "I cannot put up with this sort of life much longer," Mr. Hill said. "Several people want to buy my house, I think I shall give it up and take a couple of much longer," Mr. Hill said. HUN PRODUCTION OF FOOD IS ALARMING

BERLIN, Jan. E-Production of Icon n Germany has decreased to such as extent as to plarm the national commission of German agriculture which now demands that government control of farm products be abolished except in the case of wheat. The commission refutes a statement by the national economic ministry that the German people are in no danger of shortage of food and declares that Germany "will suffer an unlimited collapse" unless the problem is attacked with open eyes.

"The power of production has sunk so much and the beef supply is so low that only speedy reconstruction can come anywhere near safeguarding Germany's food supplies," asserts the national commission. It states that the wheat shortage in the coming year will amount to 2,500,001 tons. The potato bread rations can not be maintained during the coming winter, it says, for the potato crop also has been falsely economic ministry that the German

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 2.-MissisdACKSON, Miss. Jaff. 2.—Mississippi county poor farms shelter many paupers who are parasites simply because they have not enough brains to make their own livings. A particularly striking instance of this has been found by Dr. Thomas H. Haines, scientific advisor to the Mississippi mental hygiene commission. A North Mississippl county poor farm is sheltering eight white persons. Every one of these persons is in the poor farm for no other reason than that he is ever-witted.

There are three males and five females, ranging in age from 22 to 78.

That feeble-mindedness runs in families is emphasized by this group of poor house immates. Twin sisters and a brother, all post 70, have been in this poor house for 18 years. Two other members of the same family came to the poor house with them. They were feeble-minded. They died in the poor house. There were three other members of this family feeble-minded, who died before their father. These three oid short-witted paupers, brother and sisters, are useless to society. They have always been parasites upon the community, as were the rest of their family. Such a family of parasitic feebleminded persons certainly raises the question as to the wisdom of allowing such children to be born into the world.

Some intelligent control in this county years ago would have prevented this

Some intelligent control in this county years ago would have prevented this family of paupers coming into existence. This county is now spending over one thousand dollars a year on the mere food and shelter of eight feeble-minded white persons. Half of this sum spent annually would be ample to prevent the increase of feeble-minded families, and would be doing away with the necessity for a poor farm. This is what is called preventive medicine applied to feeble-mindedness.

Manifestly, counties can not do this work. It must be state-wide in its character, in order to be effective. Mississippi needs a school and colony for the feeble-minded, where the sexes will be segregated and where the feeble-
